Local Cousine

Makauy sausage

In the Atayal language, makauy means “mountain pepper”, a kind of spice used frequently by indigenous peoples. With a special aroma, it can help digestion too. The makauy sausage sold beside Cingsio Temple is delicious, earning high praises from visitors that have tasted it.

Position:Cingsio Temple

Golden Clam

Clam is good for your liver, rich in protein, and low in purine, sodium, and cholesterol. When the clams grow up in clear water, they are gold in color. The clearer the water, the more gold in color. Therefore, they call the clams cultivated in Shoufeng Township, Hualien, “Golden Clam.” There are also nutritious food or nutritional supplements made with “Golden Clam.”

Position:Lichuan Aquafarm

Papaya milk

The papaya milk sold for more than 5 decades near Liyu Lake is made from fresh milk from Ruisui without adding any sugar, water, and ice. Unfiltered, you can taste the mellowness and sweetness of both papaya and milk. You can also eat the shreds of papaya’s flesh too.

Position:South Liyu Lake Recreation Area

Sugar factory shredded ice

Hualien Sightseeing Sugar Factory was an important sugar factory in east Taiwan in the early times. In 2002, it was changed into a Sightseeing Sugar Factory. When visiting here, visitors should not miss the shredded ice dishes here. The most famous ones are Red Bean and Milk Shredded Ice and Moon Shredded Ice, both of which are popular snacks here. If you find them tasty, you many like to buy some ice cream or ice-lolly to take home. They can be shipped to your door by courier service.

Position:Hualian Sugar Factory
